Give

Beat Hunger Pangs, Make Great Academic Gains!

My students need nutritious snacks to start their day and to maintain energy for the school day.

My Students

I'm interested in closing the learning gap, meeting student needs, increasing communication, collaboration, and motivation within my classroom with a range of language, reading and learning abilities. My students represent a variety of cultures with over half of my class being English Language learners. There is diversity with socio-economic status within the class, as well.

Creating a culture for learning through motivating experiences speaks volumes to this group of students!

Meeting their most basic needs by providing healthy snacks and ready to eat quick meals for breakfast is a major part of enabling students to be ready for school. Providing for these nutritional needs from the classroom will help in the face of communication and socio-economic challenges.
