Without Denise Carr, this book would not have had a chance...without Pat Delaney none of this would ever be tolerated...as usual, our technical department had solutions for problems we created. Transcontinental printed this book with style and speed. Chris Buckland is the coolest Canadian we've ever known. Special thank you to the entire staff at KE for standing behind Han when the you know what hit the you know what. Best of luck to our seniors... get out and do something. Dan Essrow will be impossible to replace...who's going to step up and try? Ihle came out of nowhere and made a statement... The Becker sisters cranked for this book...Bryan White is a madman...his harmonica solos on the desktop scared the crap out of everyone at first, but now they are legendary...we knew he would fit in nicely. Did we mention that Denise Carr was huge?...well, not like overweight huge; we mean, like, pretty much responsible for getting this thing done...the rumors about going to the casino and the gambling habit apparently have been disproven...who starts that kind of stuff?

Bowling

A collage of bowling-related images. The background features large, stylized bowling pins. Overlaid on this are several photographs of students bowling. The photos show students in various stages of a bowling game, from preparing to bowl to celebrating a strike. The students are wearing dark-colored shirts, some with logos. The bowling lanes are visible, along with bowling balls and pins. The overall theme is bowling.
